2/03/2017

Evangers

Dear Distributors:

You are probably aware by now that on New Year's Evangers was made aware through social media about a consumer complaint from Washington State regarding 1 can of our hand packed Hunk of Beef product. We immediately began testing product with the same production dates (all test results have been updated on our website at www.evangersdogfood.com as received). All tests came back negative. This past weekend, almost a month to the day of the original complaint, we learned through social media of a potential concern by this same consumer referencing Pentobarbital.

Out of an abundance of caution, we have decided to issue a voluntary recall for specific lots of our Hunk of Beef, packed by hand product. This recall affects any Hunk of Beef product with lot numbers that start with 1816E03HB, 1816E04HB, 1816E06HB, 1816E07HB, and 1816E13HB. The UPC code on the label is 20109. The expiration date on the cans are June 2020.

An image of the product appears below for ease in identifying the product.
